

OPPORTUNITY

These days private sector real estate projects are few and far between. Federal stimulus money has resulted in billions of dollars of public sector development projects, benefiting thousands of companies around the country. No matter what your role is in the real estate process, Jon Stover & Associates can help you capitalize.

The Public Sector Is Where The Construction Is Have You Taken Advantage?

SERVICES

Jon Stover & Associates offers a wide variety of consulting services for any entity in the real estate or planning realm. The core of our business is finding near-term and long-term public sector contract opportunities:

- * Determining which cities, counties, or market areas present the strongest opportunities for your company
- * Outlining the procurement process and key players within selected municipalities, and developing tailor-made strategies for securing public sector contracts

WHY SHOULD YOU HIRE US?

- * We have the real estate and public sector experience and networks to provide the best insights and find the strongest opportunities available
- * Hiring Jon Stover & Associates is faster and more economical than researching public sector opportunities in-house
- * As a third-party entity, Jon Stover & Associates can talk to the players and ask the questions that pose as a challenge or conflict of interest for companies to do themselves
